

Hi Hazel,

I finally arrived in southern, England. It looks wonderful here! Today I decided to explore around the gigantic megaliths of Stonehenge which is located on the Salisbury Plain.

Did you know that these stones weigh up to 45 tonnes? It's amazing! I just found out that the megaliths in Stonehenge were built over 4500 years ago. Can you believe that I am standing in front of a megalith that is maybe five times larger than I am? I wonder how farmers were able to build these structures? Anyways, I'm going to continue my journey!

See you soon,

Jb Lacap
